Enhance your teaching. Why not fine-tune your teaching skills and participate in ‘Quest for Best: ISE Foundation/ISE I Independent Listening (A2/B1). You’ll find lots of useful teaching tips you can use and practice with your students.

Quest for Best: ISE Foundation/ISE I Independent Listening (A2/B1)

- From Saturday, 27th April to Sunday 19th May 2019
- A few places are still available.
- Just click on the blue, hyperlinked course title and follow the instructions

A 15 hour, online course over three weeks and four weekends to help teachers prepare candidates for the Independent listening task of Trinity College London’s Integrated Skills in English at Foundation and ISE I levels. This course has challenging and inspiring resources with tasks to encourage a reflective approach. Course participants can: progress through much of the course at their own pace; reflect on input resources; make contributions on the discussion forums; receive feedback from the tutor; and interact with peers and learn from colleagues.

The main aims are: to familiarise participants with the format of the ISE Foundation and ISE I independent listening tasks; to encourage participants to reflect on the skills students need to develop to do well on ISE Foundation and ISE I Independent Listening Tasks; to provide teaching ideas and practical tips for preparing students for the ISE Foundation and ISE I Independent listening task; and to help participants to develop and share their own teaching ideas for the ISE Foundation and ISE I Independent Listening tasks.

To apply for a place on one of these courses you must be highly motivated and ideally have at least C1 CEFR level. Just click on the course title, follow the instructions.